

How can food businesses reduce food waste while helping people in need?

Using Foodlist - step by step

1. Identify food items with short shelf life at your store

6. Customers looking for a good deal on food with short shelf life, will be able to find the information about your food item on the app

2. Take a picture and upload it to the app

7. Charities interested in receiving donations will receive a message about available food and confirm pick up through the app

3. Choose whether you want to offer this food for a promotional price to customers or if you want to donate it to a local charity

8. By using Foodlist to either offer or donate your food items with short shelf life, you will quickly reduce your food waste in an effective way.

4. If you want to sell it for a promotional price, add shelf life info, location and discount type

9. Save money, help the environment and support people in need. Register to start using foodlist today:
www.foodlist.no

5. If you want to donate it to charity, add shelf life info, location and time that the food item is available for pick up